

NEW PROGRAM

Health Sciences & Society

Learn about global trends related to your field of study and build your Spanish language skills specific to health professions in Seville, Spain. This interdisciplinary program, offered in conjunction with our partner institution, Pablo de Olavide University, explores the juncture at which health and society merge. Courses draw upon the city as a laboratory for active learning, connecting personal and professional experiences to course content. Enhance your classroom experience with the Academic Integrated Cultural Activities Program (AICAP), which gives you a chance to participate in popular workshops such as the Art of Flamenco, Spanish Regional Cooking, and excursions to Northern Morocco or Lisbon, Portugal.
